

Sonoma Boys Appeared for Examination And Some Are Accepted for Service

Zeph Marcy and Chas. Revie Pass With Honor and Claim no Exemption Another Call for Men Likely

Joe Ryan of the Exemption Board has been in constant attendance at the important session this week when the young men summoned on the first draft appeared for examination before Doctors O'Brien, Seawell and Shaw and listened to claimants for exemption. The first day's work on Wednesday was very encouraging for out of 68 men called, 54 reported, which number, disbarred the feeble minded, who numbered 10, left 44 available. Ryan was exceedingly proud of this first lot of young men for they were fine specimens, only eleven being dismissed for disability. Nineteen claimed exemption, among them Frank Groskopf, who is an employee at Mare Island; Robert Canning, supporting aged and infirm parents; Hazen Cowan, breeding, breaking and in charge of horses at the London ranch.

Among those waiving all claims and passing a high test examination was Zeph Marcy who said if the Board said so, he would shoulder a musket then and there.

Lynn MacQuiddy has already enlisted and Richard Vernon offered himself for enlistment. Vittorio Ottomella passed and claimed no exemption. Rudolph Wagner was given a transfer to Long Beach for examination there. A number who were summoned Wednesday failed to appear and the matter is being investigated.

On Thursday there was much disappointment over the percentage of available men, only three who passed the physical examination offering themselves for service. Among these was Charles Revie, son of Mrs. Susie Revie of this place who passed honorably in every respect and made no claim for exemption. Wm. Perry would have been in the same class but was forced to list his claim as already enlisted into the Naval Reserve. Twenty-one others who passed the physical test claimed exemption from some cause or another. Among the latter were L. E. Darling, dependent wife and child, L. S. Bruback, dependent wife and child, Jacob Yenni, foreman of father's dairy, Wm. Geldermann, widowed mother.

Herman Krupski was found to be a German subject, Leland Volquardson failed to pass the physical examination, and Chas. F. Hall failed to appear. Jung Mook, the Chinaman, was disbarred.

W. F. Studley drove all the way from Lakeview, Oregon in his auto to be here on time yesterday for the draft examination.

Mr. Studley's hearing disbarred him. He was accompanied by J. S. Sheppard and the trip down took from Tuesday, 3 p. m. until Thursday at 11 p. m., when tired and dusty they arrived here.

Annibale Maffei was also called yesterday but did not pass the examination because of the absence of his trigger finger which was amputated several years ago following an accident.

Among the next 300 likely to be called in the draft are the following: I. Levoroni, W. Peterson, J. Levoroni, T. Millerick, F. Benjamin, J. Gottenberg, M. Maruch, J. Mohr, C. Bergstrom, C. Cornelius, B. Brusky, Wm. Kirby, G. Carpenter, G. Angove, W. von Hacht, M. Mullen.

MORNING MARRIAGE JUST BEFORE DEATH

Clementi's is the Scene of a Sad Nuptial Contract Between Dying Man and His Sweetheart.

About 6:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, Judge Small, justice of the peace, was called from his bed by a jiney messenger from Clementi's Inn to go with him post haste to the bedside of a dying young man, H. S. Prowse, 29 years of age, who wished to be married to Hilda Schwartz, his sweetheart before he crossed the Great Divide. Judge Small, upon inquiry found that no license had been secured, so at the request of the parties to the contract, he appealed to County Clerk Felt who declared he would undertake the race with death in order to fulfill the wishes of the young man who desired to be united to his fiancée ere the grim shadows enfolded him. Judge Small, having attended to this very necessary preliminary, was also requested to have a lawyer accompany him to the scene of the death bed marriage. So the services of Attorney R. A. Poppe were secured, and with the justice was driven to Clementi's.

Meanwhile the dying man had been calling for the priest and as soon as possible Father T. P. Moran was summoned and arrived about the time of the two other dignitaries to administer the sacrament that Prowse might die in the faith of his church.

County Clerk Felt too, who had sped down from Santa Rosa in a high power machine, was on hand with the license, and in accordance with the request of the parties to the marriage contract, Mr. Prowse and Miss Schwartz were married by Father Moran.

Business matters, whereby the young bride was put into possession of the dying man's property in San Francisco, were adjusted by Mr. Poppe.

Judge Small and County Clerk Felt were the recipients of heartfelt thanks and the customary Tees while the early morning excitement who had been with the fast sinking patient most of the night was still at his bedside when the others departed.

Six hours after the wedding, Mr. Prowse passed away. His disease was pulmonary consumption and a sudden hemorrhage hastened the end. The young bride and her mother took the remains to San Francisco for interment.

Over one hundred guests gathered at the church for the wedding which was one of the prettiest of the season. The decorative features were great sprays of hydrangeas and ferns tied with maline and intermingled with effective greenery.

The fair young bride looked unusually pretty as in her bridal robes of flesh tinted crepe de chine, she plighted her troth to the young railroad man with Rev. Peter Colvin pronouncing the solemn words which made them man and wife.

There were no attendants but the presence of uniformed relatives and friends of the groom including Lieutenant E. G. Seawell of the navy, formerly in the Historical Research department of the University, lent military color and distinction to the gathering.

The presents received by the young people were very handsome and included hand-hammered silver, linen, cut glass, hand-painted china and pictures.

Immediately following the church service, Mr. and Mrs. Seawell departed on their honeymoon. They will reside in Oakland from which point Mr. Seawell goes out on his duties as railroad man.

Among those present at the wedding from here were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rambo, Miss Hallie Rambo, Alice Trudgen and Edward Poley.

Congratulations of many Sonoma friends follow the young couple to their new home. The bride is a girl of the highest ideals and many beautiful traits of character. Mr. Seawell comes from a fine old Southern family and is highly thought of by all who know him.

Mrs. Zachary, the widely traveled wife of the well known sea captain has arrived from Honolulu and is a visitor at the home of Mrs. R. J. Snyder.

Chas. Miller, an employee of the Foster ranch has been under the care of Dr. Gohar for cornal ulcer following an injury to one of his eyes.

Jack Magee, a popular resident of El Verano, led Miss Eva White to the altar in Oakland last Monday. A sumptuous wedding dinner at the home of the bride followed the ceremony. The honeymoon has been spent in Los Angeles and famous beaches of Southern California.

Miss Marie Snyder is still in San Francisco under the care of a physician but was able to go down town last week for dental work, so is evidently much improved which will be good news to many anxious friends.

D. VALENTE IS CALLED HIGHER

Death Comes to Pioneer Resident After Short Illness.

Domenico Valente, one of Sonoma's pioneer residents and good citizens, passed away Monday, following a short illness. Mr. Valente had been employed on the Tower ranch in harvesting the crops and was in the best of health up to a few days before his death. Dr. Hays was called to attend him but despite medical aid he sank into a coma and passed away at the family home on Spain street.

Mr. Valente was a native of Genoa, Italy and came here when quite a young man. He was one of the first members of Sonoma's Volunteer Fire Department, a prominent Druid, a good friend and neighbor. Through honest effort and frugality, Mr. Valente accumulated considerable property and up to the time of his last illness was an active and industrious man. He was devoted to his family and leaves a widow and four children to mourn his passing. The children are: John and Jep Valente, well known young business men of this place; Emile Valente, a student at St. Ignatus College and Miss Mary Valente of San Francisco.

The funeral took place Thursday afternoon and was largely attended. Services were held at St. Francis Church and the brother Druids of the deceased attended the impressive mass in a body, marching also in the funeral procession to Mountain Cemetery, where all that was mortal of Domenico Valente was laid to rest. Beautiful floral offerings covered the grave, the remembrance of relatives and lifelong friends.

FLAMES TAKE BIG HOTEL

Two Story Frame Structure Near Depot Goes Up in Smoke Monday.

Shortly after one o'clock Monday the Lombardo Hotel of which E. Bianchini was proprietor, took fire and in forty minutes was a smoldering mass of ruins. The flames spread rapidly after the discovery of the conflagration which had its origin in the kitchen and by the time the fire bell brought volunteers to the scene, dense volumes of smoke were pouring out of the windows and flames were angrily consuming the contents of the building.

A line of hose was attached to the Cucci hydrant and soon a score of men were at work on the pump and streams of water were played on the seething fire. The chemical engine from Boyes Springs and a delegation of fire fighters from the up-to-date suburb arrived on the scene shortly after the local department, and led by Wm. Kirby, Lander Stevens and others, ran a line from the chemical right into the blazing structure. It was too late, however, to stay the progress of the flames which were by this time eating their way through every partition and threatening to burst through the roof. Stevens overcame by the smoke and Kirby scorched about the face by the suffocating and intense heat. Many of the local volunteer firemen risked their lives in trying to control the unconquerable flames and save adjoining property. A number of sheds, much fencing and several tanks in the vicinity made communication with adjacent business property quite likely and as the hotel fire was at its height a heroic fight was made to save the Schocken and Cucci properties from the oncoming flames.

A one time large storage shed in the rear of Cucci's took fire and brave fire ladders pulled off boards from the outside with their bare hands and with buckets and wet sacks, fought back the fire demon. When the tall beams on the southeast corner of the flaming ruins at last fell, all danger was past for the wind was to the north and a two story stone annex kept the fire from spreading on that side.

Mr. Bianchini, proprietor of the hotel, lost everything. He carried about $1500 insurance on the contents of the building, which was owned by S. Schocken. Mr. Schocken was also covered by insurance to the amount of $2000.

The Basaglia family and many in the neighborhood, including the Toscano guests began to move out their belongings when the Lombardo fire menaced the adjoining buildings.

Had a high wind prevailed the conflagration might have been one of the worst Sonoma ever suffered.

Deadly Anthrax is Fatal to Humans and Cattle on Seehuber Ranch

Chas. Seehuber Dies and Wife Is in Precarious State. County Authorities Quarantine Property and Advise Vaccination

Chas. Seehuber who went to the German Hospital some days ago, apparently suffering from blood poisoning and died on Monday, was a victim of anthrax. So declare the county health authorities who have quarantined the Seehuber ranch and burned the carcasses of animals which succumbed to the dread malady.

Mrs. Seehuber, who cared for her husband has come down with the disease and has been in the German Hospital with her life in the balance. The death of D. Valente is thought by some to be traceable to the deadly anthrax as he was at work on the ranch and passed away about the same time as did Seehuber.

The circumstances of the unfortunate occurrence seem to be that one cow hooked another and when the hooked animal was discovered by its owner, Seehuber, he killed and skinned it, believing it to be a healthy animal aside from the superficial wound it suffered. He then consumed and gave away portions of the meat. One neighbor was given the liver, but after keeping it over night it looked peculiar so he fed it to his dogs. The dogs died. The meat which was eaten by two families was cooked, which process is said to have killed any germs that might have been present.

Seehuber, in skinning the cow, got an infection on his hand which he had scratched on barb wire and as a result the anthrax developed fast and malignantly. Mr. Valente also helped in handling the slain animal and this fact has led to suspicion that his death may be traceable to anthrax although the symptoms were entirely different from those of Seehuber, owner of the cow.

The county health authorities were here Thursday and quarantined the Seehuber premises, burned the carcass of a second cow which died and the two dogs. They also inoculated the stock on the ranch.

Doctors Hays and Thompson visited the home and had the children placed under observation for fear of any developments. The death and illness of Mr. and Mrs. Seehuber is a sad blow to their seven children. Mr. Seehuber has had the position of foreman on the Tower place. Last spring he bought a band of cattle from the Harrison Mechem ranch at Stony Point and the herd seemed fine and healthy. The cow which was hooked was hitherto perfectly sound and the cow and calf in the stable with her were likewise apparently healthy. Both cows, however, died, while the calf is still alive. Chickens were evidently immune.

Later—Mrs. Seehuber will live and one of her sons who has been given the test for anthrax, showed no signs of the disease.

A fire draft horse died on the A. E. Tower ranch yesterday and Dr. Winttingham of the County Health Board pronounced its death due to Anthrax. All owners of stock are urged to vaccinate their herds.

Unnecessary Upheaval To Be Decried

How much easier for many industries would be the burden of maintaining the war if war profits were made to pay the maximum. Huge fortunes and accumulative power begotten by war's grim necessity would be held in abeyance while ordinary necessities and business channels could be kept more normal—a much desired condition in the midst of war's upheaval. War spells disruption but why inflict the country with moral, economic and political upheaval not born of war itself or avoidable in some apparent way?

It is obvious in the food control discussion that extraneous matters and the fetich of prohibition have been befogging the vital problems involved. The conservation of grain, having been deemed necessary and the curtailment of strong drink determined upon, was just an incentive to agitators and cranks to push their propaganda farther and to dangle their axes over the heads of hop raisers and our grape growers—surely an interesting spectacle at a time when everyone is beset by sufficient trouble due to the war.

Industries must not be unnecessarily hampered in wartime for they are the backbone of the country and if there is any way to ease up their position and give free rein to their development, let it be done by taxing war profits more and by generally safeguarding our industries.

Labor agitators and strikers should be dealt with uncompromisingly for industry cannot afford to have the talons of anarchy at its throat at this time and if the wheels of commerce are locked through strife, who will pay? It will work inordinate hardship on the glorious nation whose life's blood is being given for democracy, a hardship more dreadful because more treacherous and because of the pressure of conditions due to the preparedness and conduct of the war.

The moral wave should not be permitted to become a cyclone and of violent and destructive character sufficient to turn communities of the nation upside down. Already under the pretext of protecting the enlisted the professional reformer is running roughshod over communities and threatening wholesale onslaught. He should be kept in his place and the military and civic authorities permitted to deal with vice. If the politician is blind to evil conditions, the military should take precedent in the handling of lawlessness. The real helper and zealous friend of the soldier should respect and have confidence in an authority which has already banished evil from the vicinity of all cantonments and put the ban on open intoxication of soldiers. Reformers should not use these evidences of the efficiency of government control to press themselves forward and usurp the functions of duly constituted government itself but should co-operate along lines such as the Knights of Columbus and the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. suggest and aim to fortify, interest and amuse the soldier boy—to instruct and enlighten and strengthen the individual. Here is a wide and rich field for endeavor. There will ever be pitfalls in some form or another, but cut off the demand for them and the world will grow better. So let us discourage the professional reformer from spilling garbage and nauseating the public to no end but a selfish and delusive record. Let us make communities as livable as possible while the war lasts. The political problem of making the world's democracy may be now in the process of solution. The moral problem of making the millennium come to pass is a matter of evolution, not to be hastened by Paul Smiths, Billy Sundays or the spectacular gentry.

The Alien's Duty Is Plain

While considering the obvious necessities of war and the lightening of the burden where possible, it surely must come home to the aliens in this land of protection and opportunity that they should not escape the obligation which the war entails upon them. Unfriendly aliens cannot hope to share our benefits, and friendly aliens should be glad to serve this great country which is doing so much for the people of all lands and stretching forth a helping hand to every worthy stranger within its gates. If the United States has not taught the basic virtue, gratitude and the prime lesson of loyalty, if the spirit abroad in this country of ours has not correlated our patriots into a brotherhood wherein citizenship papers are but outward evidence of a consistent emotion and the open intent of the declarant, democracy has failed. Malcontents who deny that we have the right to call them now from our looms to the cantonments, from the mines to the Marne, from the shops to the trench, along with native born Americans whose fore fathers have fought for the preservation of the United States, who have paid with the blood of heroic ancestors the priceless heritage of liberty, should be sent back to the compulsory military requirements of a more rigid discipline.

America's very own have few more privileges and no more opportunities than the alien. For all his children Uncle Sam is ever working overtime, putting every alert brain and every shining dollar he can muster into the bettering of the units in the body politic. He is on the job whether it be the microscopic task of germ destruction or the colossal overthrow of the artificial octopus in big business. Ever alert to safeguard and to better the well being of aliens and of citizens physically, morally and intellectually and socially, Uncle Sam stands for a progress and idealism worthy of solidified sentiment for the greatest of sacrifice.

The argument which precludes the duty of aliens to such a paternalism is dangerous rubbish.

The Garden City of San Jose has almost gotten the sobriquet of the Garbage City of San Jose since Rev. Steger, Smith and Mr. Grant buried the flowers and dug up the sewage there.

APPLE GROWERS OBSERVE NEW REQUIREMENTS

W. L. Newcomb, the state apple commissioner for this district is in constant touch with the growers of Sonoma Valley, whom he finds living up to the letter of the new law which requires grading of apples, the stating of number shipped, the date of packing, etc. Mr. Newcomb distributed the stickers Tuesday for grading Fancy, B grade and C grade. He reports the inspector's examination to have resulted in the appointment of George Shaffer, Napa; A. R. Gallanay, Healdsburg and C. H. King, Sebastopol, the largest percentages being to the credit of these applicants.

The leading apple growers of this valley, now making shipments and the number of boxes they shipped last season is given out by Mr. Newcomb as follows:

YOUNG RAILROAD MAN IS WED

Miss BURG Bernberger at noon Thursday was the bride of Client E. BURG in a ceremony performed in the presence of a few friends at the Dornberger residence in San Anselmo.

The pretty bride is one of San Anselmo's most popular girls, and since the announcement of the engagement she has been the guest of honor at a number of social events arranged for her.

The groom is a Glen Ellen boy and holds a good position with the Northwestern Railroad.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Cantwell, and the bride and groom were attended respectively by Miss Lillian Spaulding, the bride's sister and Nicholas Whitmore.

Immediately following the wedding breakfast and reception at the home, the couple left for a honeymoon trip to San Diego, Ogden and Salt Lake. They will make their home in Glen Ellen.

POPULAR MUSICIAN CRITICALLY ILL IN HOSPITAL

The many friends of Tony Peterson, the talented and popular musician, will regret to hear that he has been lying critically ill at the University Hospital in San Francisco.

He had been complaining of the trouble for some time past and it has been diagnosed as an abscess of the stomach. Some years ago he suffered from the same malady.

Tony is a natural musician and his skill and talent as a singer, guitarist and banjo player has won him a wide circle of friends and admirers. With his vivacious little wife, their songs have become famed on local entertainment programs and also in San Francisco where they formerly appeared professionally.

The good news of his convalescence is anxiously hoped for.

Mrs. Peterson is with her husband as often as is permitted and will remain with a married sister in the metropolis during his illness.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN SAN JOSE

Theo. Storm, a former resident of Sonoma Valley who has of late years made his home in San Jose, died there last Monday after an illness caused by a fall from which he never fully recovered. Mr. Storm came from a distinguished New York family and was prominent socially during his residence here. He formerly resided with his mother on the property now known as Sonoma Grove. A skilled horseman, talented vocalist and raconteur, he was greatly missed when he left the large circle of friends here.

Many clever literary contributions came from the pen of Theodore Storm and were sent from time to time to old Sonoma friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Church were presented with a pretty baby girl Saturday last. Dr. Hays was in attendance.

CATTLE OWNERS MUST REGISTER BRANDS

According to the provisions set forth in the new code dealing with the perpetuation of distinguishing marks on cattle to prove ownership, the following appears:

"Every person who, under or by virtue of compliance with Section 3168 of the political code, owns a mark, brand or counter brand, must within three months of final publication of this notice, notify the county recorder of his desire to continue or perpetuate such mark, brand or counter brand. This notification must be in words of positive or reasonable intent and must be either by registered letter or personal application addressed to the said county recorder. Any person failing to so continue and perpetuate such mark, brand or counterbrand, shall lose all right, title and interest therein."

The notice set forth in this section will be published at intervals of four weeks, the final publication to appear five months later. Three months after the final notice the county recorder will compile all registered brands, while those who have not been accounted for by their owners automatically become inoperative under the terms of the law.

It is said the reason for this legislation is due to the similarity of the brands which have resulted in many cases of litigation in the past.

The new law affects Sonoma as well as every county in California.

TEACHER WRITES OF PACIFIC GROVE VACATION

Miss Florence Murphy, who with her mother is enjoying a two weeks' vacation at Pacific Grove, just prior to the reopening of the Grammar School, has written interestingly of the trip. We quote from her letter as follows:

Pacific Grove, Aug. 7th.
Such a wonderful place as this is. We feasted our eyes all the way coming down and probably should have had headache and eye strain had it not been for overcast skies at both ends of the ride. From San Jose to Gilroy it was sunny and pretty warm but soon we turned westward and came into the land of the ocean breeze. The road beyond Palo Alto was all new to me and it was as bad as a Chinese puzzle to trace our route in the railroad folder but I did it. We saw all sorts of activities between Menlo Park and Palo Alto and knew it must be Camp Fremont.

The streets here at Pacific Grove go every way it seems to me, but we have explored a good deal already and find it quite easy to remember locations. We know all the beach points of interest for some distance up and down, and have found library, museum, curio shops and art gallery. We haven't visited any of these yet but shall as time goes on.

I've found out how to get to Asilomar, a pleasant walk, and Del Monte, Monterey and Carmel, and shall make these trips next week.

Our landlady is very kind about giving information, and I've met a lady who has the apartment above ours. She is a teacher in the Chico Normal and knows George Chase and Hamill Wagon. Her name is Miss Spruill, believe. We met down on the beach yesterday P. M. and she piloted me around to the amusement places, and also told me of outside trips of interest. I said to mother, "I really wonder if two weeks will be enough to see all these wonders."

Yesterday the fog cleared away

WILL TRAIN FOR PROFESSIONAL NURSE

Miss Marie Helberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Helberg of Schellville, will follow in the footsteps of her sister, Miss Valerie, and enter the Hahnemann Hospital of San Francisco where she will train for a nurse.

Miss Valerie Helberg graduated last spring with high honors, completing her course with her class, although for five months she was absent on account of the illness of her mother, whom she nursed with great skill and tenderness. After her graduation Miss Helberg continued to nurse at the hospital where she has a fine position. Miss Marie will start training September 1st and carries with her the good wishes of many friends in this valley where she is one of the most popular members of the younger set.

early and we had a cloudless, blue sky above and a more intense blue bay below—like a painting called 'Monterey Bay' I remember at the Exposition—and last night the Fates were very kind to give a perfectly clear night for the full moon, the time selected for the Feast of the Lanterns. It seems that this has always been celebrated here before the last night of the Chatauqua season. This year there was no Chatauqua but the people of the town thought it too bad to give up such a pretty custom, so they decided to have it on an economical basis. The beach was crowded with people and Ocean View was almost a solid mass of automobiles.

We went down and found a sheltered place in a little pavilion facing east over the bay. There we watched the slow lighting-up process, strings of Japanese lanterns leading from town to the beach, all the beach pavilions, and many small boats out on the water, besides many single lanterns carried by people. Then the moon came up over a point right facing us, and lighted up a broad band across the water, and it was all like a scene in fairyland. The band played, a ladies glee club sang songs from the glass-bottomed boat and a monster bonfire was burned out on Lovers Point.

People say that this is a banner year for Pacific Grove because of the very hot summer in the interior. Children are not frowned upon here, and they are here in unlimited numbers.

We find people inclined to be friendly and very helpful about information.

Mother seems to be standing the change in air very well and I think feels quite strong.

Tonight we expect to go into town to see the lanterns lighted again and then go down to the veranda of the Pacific Grove Hotel and listen to the band concert.

LUMBER CAR IS BURNED

The derailment of the Northwestern Ignacio last Saturday, the ignition of the lumber car loaded with lumber and interruption of passenger service.

The track for several rail lengths was torn up when the car jumped the track.

Passengers on the early morning train were transferred around the wreckage, but the line was cleared shortly after noon. Wrecking parties were sent from Sausalito to clear away the debris.

St. Barbara's Guild will meet with Mrs. E. Abrogast Tuesday, August 20. The Guild has decided to give its fall entertainment on Friday, Nov. 23.

The serving of a fine cafeteria supper and the sale of dainty handwork will be part of the November program, which will conclude with dancing.

Ray Cooper visited his mother over Sunday. Ray is at Camp Fremont in the hospital corps and is at present taking down reports of medical examinations.

Joe McMullin has returned from his vacation.

WENT TO GET BACK

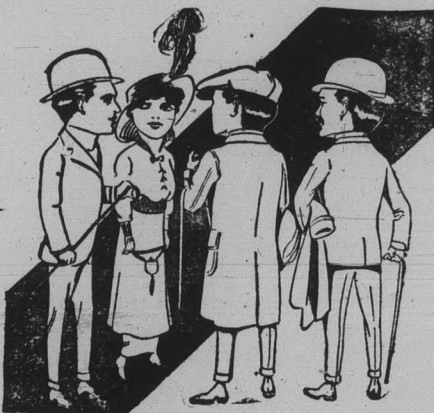

of the Berkeley Ga. heart an affable fellow, was down the other day. He had little comment to make on the county and appeared out of breath and rather reticent. But when he got home to Berkeley he broke the silence about his trip to Santa Rosa, city of lovely homes, and to Sonoma, valley of the moon. Some who asked him if visitors are treated good up in this country. The Berkeley man answered "yes" but added, "nobody's home up there on the road question. They say 'welcome to our city and such polite twaddle,' quoth the scribe, 'but if the visiting motorists have been jolted from one end of town to the other by an incessant series of hollows on the road surface, so their very bones ache while the automobile creaks dismally, they will shake the dust from the machine as they pass the local boundary. They resolve never to come there again until the town loosens up its tightwad purse and spends some money on scientific road construction. 'A community may have handsome houses and neatly kept lawns and pretty shrubbery. But if the streets are full of depressions so that the machine has to proceed at a snail's pace, the civic beauty goes for nothing and the next time travellers will avoid the town if they can.'"

"The same thing is true over whole sections where road conditions are poor. The scenery may be attractive and the hotels may be good, but if the roads are poor the people will turn their outing trips in other directions. As motor parties spend money freely that is a handicap to the business of the district, not to speak of the left handed and unfavorable advertising that is spread about through the touring public."

Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Hayter motored to Shasta county and are spending their vacation in that beautiful section of California. The Standard Oil interests here are being carefully observed by Carl von Hacht of the Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hotz and Master Preston Hotz will spend their vacation in San Francisco sight seeing and enjoying the nearby beaches.
